

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Revelations of a Wife

by Adele Garrison

Adele Garrison was the nom de plume of American writer Nana Springer. Her career included time as a schoolteacher in Milwaukee. She later worked as an editor for the Milwaukee Sentinel and then a reporter and writer for the Chicago Examiner and Chicago American.

Revelations of a Wife ran as a serial story in her daily newspaper column in multiple American newspapers from 1915 until the Depression. It told the story of the marital ups and downs of Margaret “Madge” Graham, an independent-minded former schoolteacher, and her husband Dicky, an artist. At the height of the story’s popularity, it had one million regular readers. (Wikipedia)

Total running time: 11:47:00

Read by Maire Rhode

Cover design by Kathryn Delaney
Photograph by Jeff Belmonte

ADELE GARRISON

ADELE GARRISON

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE